New this week:

Grevillea King's Park hybrids we've sold these off and on but you haven't been properly introduced! Here's three wonderful new varieties from the legendary and dreamworld-like King's Park and Botanic Garden in Perth, Western Australia. They have spectacular flower displays in tough yet garden-tolerant packages. All have reliably bloomed off and on throughout the year here, so expect the same anywhere cool mornings can occur throughout the year. They're frost hardy enough to be use in most areas (25-20F?), very drought tolerant (of course) and surprisingly good container subjects as well. Typical Grevillea conditions, just cut them back if they start looking tired, they'll come right back! USDA zone 9/Sunset 8-9, 13, 15-24. rev 2/2019 New for 2019!

'King's Celebration' PP 27899P3 the showiest flower display of all? Silky-furry white flower spikes open to intense cherry red flowers in terminal toothbrush clusters. Tough dark blue green to grey green leaves are finely cut, with contrasting whitish undersides. Upright spreading growth to 5-6' tall and wide. New for 2019! (currently out - more coming soon!)

'King's Fire' PP27875 my personal favorite, with the hottest and most striking color. Silky-furry white flower spikes open to hot red to orange red flowers in terminal toothbrush clusters and accented by yellow style tips. Foliage is dense, very soft, finely cut, light grey to grey green with whitish undersides. To 5-6' tall and wide. New for 2019! (currently out - more coming soon!)

'King's Rainbow' P27931 the most consistent bloomer and smallest/lowest grower. Warm honey gold flowers with red to light orange styles. Foliage is bright to deep green, finely cut, soft-textured and relatively open but retained well. New for 2019! in 05G

New last week:

HYPNOTISING COLOR PATTERN

Begonia 'Grey Feather' this is a wonderful foliage variety, tall, fast, durable, with dark blue green leaves accented by bold iridescent silver veins. The leaf-reverses are bright maroon red, foliage hangs neatly at an almost perfectly vertical angle. We've never seen it bloom here, in fact I couldn't even find an image on the Internet, which is telling us something. It is described as clusters of white or light pink flowers but we'll see. Judging from it's vigor and strong, speckled, burgundy canes I expect this could easily reach the eaves of your house in a good, frost-protected location. It is a spectacular, dramatic large container plant for your porch, patio or walkway. Otherwise expect 3-6' tall by about as much wide in part sun to full shade, rich, moist soil, average water use but allow to dry a little between irrigations, no hard freezes. USDA zone 9 (with overhead protection). rev 2/2019 New for 2019! in 02G

OUR LOYAL STOCK PLANT

BAT-WING FOLIAGE

Begonia "karwinskiana" a real winner! Probably not a valid name, though possibly described but not yet cited by the two sources required for IPNI. It apparently isn't B. karwinskYANA, which does appear in IPNI. I found only one online reference to this name, an Ecuadorian nursery website showing leaves of what must be the same thing. Our small, humble stock plant put on a spectacular show of small, rich pink flowers in condensed heads at the top of really tall stalks, holding the display well above the foliage. Thick, somewhat iridescent, very dark olive green leaves are angularly lobed, almost bat-wing in overall shape, with a nice, striking chartreuse green eye and typical rich maroon red undersides. Probably initiates from either chill and/or short day - time will tell. Besides indoor uses I'm sure it's fine for porch/patio containers or very protected outdoor planting sites in the warmer parts of California. Typical growing conditions. USDA zone 9 with protection. rev 2/2019 New for 2019! in 01G

ALMOST READY IN JANUARY!

Blueberry 'Biloxi' a very heavy and continuous bearing hybrid with excellent flavor. Considered "no-chill," but my guess is that isn't entirely accurate - it is probably just variety, with excellent commercial production even in very warm tropical or subtropical conditions (Mexico from 1000' elevation and higher). I'd modify that based on our experience here at our nursery to say it is actually highly chill-responsive, as far as initiation-class chill is concerned (55-45F, daylight). But has been documented to do very poorly if it experiences any damaging cold at all (below 32F), with fruit production dropping off noticeably. Very dense habit, covered with flowers and berries all year here at our nursery, including most of our winters. Best planted with other varieties for better pollination. rev 1/2019 New for 2019! in 01G

PINBALL WIZARD

WATERLOO SUNSET

Dianthus 'Devon Cottage Pinball Wizard' and 'Waterloo Sunset' PP21080 two new additions to Plant Haven's excellent Devon Cottage series, with the same classic, strong fragrance and wonderful blue-grey, disease resistant foliage. All are compact growers, to about 12-14" tall and wide, all bloom for extended seasons. Hardy to USDA zone 5. rev 2/2019 New for 2019! in 01G

RETINA-DAMAGING COLOR

EYE PROTECTION REQUIRED!

FLY'S-EYE VIEW

Dianthus 'Kahori Pink' and 'Kahori Scarlet' not strictly new, but not in our catalog yet and we've only had trial crops until now. So this is their big hurrah! 'Kahori Pink' is a very intense "blue pink," mauve, etc. whatever you think is appropriate. It is really, really intense, you just can't ignore it. I really like it! rev 2/2019 New for 2019! in 01G

I NEED SOME HOT LOVE

Dianthus 'Kahori Scarlet' a light red, but almost as electric, especially in full sun, where it appears mostly rose pink. In lower light the richer red components dominate. Same habit, bloom vigor and everything else we think is fantastic about these Kahoris! rev 2/2019 New for 2019! in 01G
